DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 43 recites the limitation "the surfactant" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 41-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bonner et al.

Bonner et al. teaches a method for removing material from a microfeature workpiece having a doped silicon material, (col. 9, lines 17-29), comprising disposing a first polishing liquid adjacent to the doped silicon material and removing a first portion of the doped silicon material by chemical mechanical planarization, the first polishing liquid having a first composition and disposing a second polishing liquid adjacent to the doped silicon material and removing a second portion of the doped silicon material and by

CMP, the second polishing liquid having a second composition and including a surfactant, (col. 6, lines 2-64). Bonner et al. also teaches that removing the first portion of the doped silicon material includes removing the first portion at a first rate and removing the second portion at a second rate, the second rate being less than the first rate, (col. 14, lines 24-26).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 45 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bonner et al.

Bonner et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for the surfactant being in the polishing liquid from about 0.001% to about 1.0% and the surfactant being non-ionic. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the polishing liquid of Bonner et al. with a non-ionic surfactant in the liquid from about 0.001% to about 1.0%, in order to vary liquids removal rate, and since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 46-48 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 1-40 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-48 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
